Ev'ry eve-ning I meet her. On the beach at Wai-ki-ki I greet her. Noth-ing
 You should see her by moon-light, She's the cut-est lit-tle thing that's liv-ing, Kiss-es sweet-er nor neat-er. Than my mer-maid of the Southern seas.

Slow Drag

All the time, in the trop-i-cal 'time, Where they do the hu-la lu-la Out at the beach, with your dear lit-tle peach, Where the waves are roll-ing in so dance, I fell in love, with a choc-o-late dove, While high, Holding her hand, while you sit on the sand, You
