As sung by Mike Gallagher, in "The Maid of Arran".

By LOUIS F. BAUM.

INTRODUCTION.

PIANO.

The introduction consists of two staves of music. The upper staff is in treble clef and features a melody of eighth notes with frequent triplets, indicated by a '3' over the notes. The lower staff is in bass clef and provides a harmonic accompaniment with chords and single notes.

Song.

The first system of the song features a vocal line on a single staff and a piano accompaniment on two staves. The lyrics are: "I'm a lad that's always glad to fling me foot and I'm never sad, The mountains ring when'er I sing for Not long ago I'd have ye know I was ask'd to Mc Ginneses ball to go, I pol-ish'd up me Sunday suit and". The piano accompaniment includes triplets in both staves.

The second system continues the song with the lyrics: "I am blithe and gay. . . . The girls all think when'er I blink that at their ways I had meant to wink Which started for to see. . . . What I could find to suit me mind in the fashion of sensible womankind To". The piano accompaniment continues with triplets and other rhythmic patterns.

The third system concludes the song with the lyrics: "makes their hearts all jump wid joy I'm a rollicking Irish boy. . . There's just one lit-tle lass. who go wid me and dance wid me A rollicking Irish girl. . . Its ai-sy for to look for". The piano accompaniment features a final cadence with triplets.
