We all try hard to gather fame and riches, Were You'll find men who have gathered gold and power, Each anxious that the world should hear our name. — Some-times we sell our soul for gold or worship at his own pe-cul-iar shrine — But if they leave no aching hearts be-power. And think that we are winners in the game, — But you don't have to win To make the hind them, They're beg-gars when they leave this world be-hind, — When they have to go They find that world re-mem-ber you, If you want to be re-mem-bered. This is all you have to do: no one sheds a tear, For they should have learned the les-son, But they did-n't want to hear!

Vamp.

Chorus. (Slow.)

Leave the world a lit - tle bet - ter than you found it, — Try to spread a lit - tle sun - shine here and there, Try to live the Gold - en Rule, That you used to learn at school, Try to treat the oth - er fel - low on the square — You don't have to be the lead - er of a na - tion, —

— It does - n't mat - ter much where you were born, — Just leave the world a lit - tle bet - ter than you found it, And you won't be for - got - ten when your gone. Leave the gone. —
