one a-bout the farm-er's daugh-ter, too. I've a sto-ry for you, dear; though you've heard it man-y times be-fore. I'm so grate-ful for it, dear;

One you ought to hear, It is-n't fun-ny but it's true.
If you'll lend an ear, I'd like to tell you just once more.

 cer-tain lit-tle cot-tage 'bout a mile a-way from town, Some-one told me it's for sale; We can get that lit-tle cot-tage for a hun-dred dol-lars down, And that's not a fair-y tale. You've lis-tened and heard my story, now it all de-pends on you. Don't ask me why, but you're the one I a-dore, It's the same old sto-ry - I love you, I do. DON'T YOU STOP ME IF YOU'VE HEARD IT BE-FORE. Has
